

'Healing Manor Doggy Policy'

We at Healing Manor and The Pig & Whistle love human visitors almost as much as we love you, however, they must not let you get up too much mischief whilst you are staying with us, that way your humans will not be subjected to any unexpected charges.

'Paw Points' for your human/s to note: -

- Your humans must let us know upon booking that they are bringing you on holiday. This is so we can ensure that you have the pleasure of staying in one of doggy-friendly rooms, as we have a limited amount available.
- They must not let you use human beds, chairs, towels or crockery
- They must make sure you do not bark, foul or chew any of the furnishings in the room
- They must keep you on your lead throughout your play time in the grounds, you might be happy to see wildlife, but they can be more sceptical.
- Your human/s must always pick up your toilet mess and dispose of – the bin can be found on the tree near the back of the Pig & Whistle, or on the fence near the barns.
- They must not let you in the moat or pond.
- They must not take you into the Portman Restaurant, which is for human use only. They can book a table in The Pig & Whistle, where you can dine from our 'doggy menu', however we must be noted of your booking. Please note that we cannot guarantee availability, due to the busy nature of the pub.
- They must be confident if they leave you 'home alone' in the bedroom, that you will be happy to be left and will not bark or cause damages.
- Wishing you lots of fun on your holiday with us.
